

Business Law

Short description

In the field of business law you will get to know the legal basis of the European Union. By doing that, you will have a closer look at the development and structure of the European Union, consumer protection as duty of the EU and legal instruments of the European Union. The core of attention in this module is the examination of the guideline principle. You will get to know the guideline for door-to-door sellings, sale of consumer goods and product liability. With every guideline you will receive an overview over the application area of the guideline, the application problems and the conversion to national right. Given examples from the jurisdiction will lead you to an estimation of different cases and situations.

Further you will gain an overview on different society structures in Austria. You will also learn about the foundations of E-Commerce law, e.g. general terms and conditions of the Internet or the right of withdrawal.
